

Adel Debwan Said Sharabi, Yemen

Speaker, Round Table: Minors & Death Penalty

He holds a diploma in Business - National Institute of Administrative Sciences - Sana'a 1994, a Bachelor of Law (Sharia law) Yemen at Sanaa University – 1996, and a Master the Rights of the Child - Faculty of Law and Political Sciences - Lebanese University - Beirut -2007.

He followed specialized training courses in Geneva - Lebanon - Jordan - Egypt - Tunisia - Kuwait - Saudi Arabia - Oman - Morocco - Indonesia in the following fields: human rights, particularly the rights of the child; juvenile justice and the legal system of juvenile justice; combating violence against children; the fight against child trafficking, legal rights and the psychological and social needs of juveniles and adolescents in need of special protection; the role of NGOs and the local community in the protection of juveniles; social services for children deprived of family care and care programs and psychological rehabilitation provided by social welfare institutions and correctional institutions; and the design and management of programs and projects providing legal protection for juveniles.

He is the Director General of Social Defense (social protection) at the Ministry of Social Affairs and Labor; Project Coordinator of the project “ protection of children” at the Ministry of Social Affairs and Labor; Member of the Technical Committee for Human Rights – Yemen; Member of the Technical Committee to combat child trafficking – Yemen; Member of the Technical Committee for the project “strengthening juvenile justice – Yemen; Member of the National Network for Child Protection – Yemen; Consultant and trainer in the field of child rights and juvenile justice and Children in need of special protection; and President of the Foundation” together for development and human rights” - Yemen